A Guide for Young People who are Fostered

Family Futures is an Agency that helps children who are fostered or adopted and their families.

Children come into foster care for many reasons and sometimes it is confusing as to what this means.

Some children are fostered only for a short time before they move into a more permanent 'forever' family which can be either another foster home or an adoptive family.

At Family Futures we know that it is hard and sometimes sad and scary living in foster care, we know that children and young people often have lots of questions and things that they're not clear about.

The staff at Family Futures are here to help you understand what it means to be in foster care and to help you to share your questions and feelings with us and with your foster parents.

We will be here to help you not just now as you move into your new family but for a long time afterwards so that you and your foster parents always have someone outside of the family that you can talk to if you have worries.

We also know that now and in the future you may have lots of questions you want to ask us or your adoptive parents.

The adults at Family Futures are here to help you and your foster parents answer these questions.

How will we do this?

Here at Family Futures we will talk to you and find out what you think and what you want to say. We will also talk to your foster parents, brothers and sisters. During your time at Family Futures we will use drawing, painting, stories, music, drama and other art forms. Sometimes we will make contact with your birth family, if you or your foster parents think this might be helpful.

Do you want to do this?

We know that it is not easy and that it is hard to trust people; but we also know that young people, who have had difficult starts in life, are survivors. They are strong and deep down want things to be better.

The adults at Family Futures will:

- Keep you safe
- Will listen to any worries or fears you may have
- Help you talk to your foster parents
- Help you understand what's happened to you in the past
- Help you feel good about yourself
- Help you make good choices and have fun

At Family Futures we are not Children's Services. We don't take children away from their foster parents.

All children have rights. If you feel you are not being listened to and you want to talk to somebody about how you are feeling, or if you can't talk to your parents, your teacher or anyone at Family Futures you can ask NYAS to help you.

We try to do our best but sometimes we get it wrong. If you are unhappy about anything that has been said to you or has happened to you when you have been at Family Futures, you have the right to complain.

How can I complain?

You can complain by talking to or writing to any of the following people:

- Your Parents/Carers
- Your Social Worker
- Your Therapist at Family Futures
- Your Children's Advocate (if you are still on a Care Order to a Local Authority)
- Your Independent Reviewing Officer
- Family Futures' Independent Person, Roger Weissman. Roger is experienced in the fields of fostering and adoption and is independent of Family Futures. His job is to make sure children and families get a good service from Family Futures.

If a complaint is made, all these people will take it seriously and investigate, and will try to sort things out in a friendly way.

How do I contact these people?

Then what happens next?

If you are still not happy, then you should tell the person you originally complained to that you are not happy and they will start a detailed investigation into your complaint.
